Have Your Say – Toronto Ward Boundary Review, Survey ends September 23

The Toronto Ward Boundary Review is conducting the second round of public consultation and seeking your input via online survey:

<http://www.drawthelines.ca/additional-information-participate/>.

A ward boundary review looks at the current number of people living in each ward and at how those numbers are expected to grow in the future. Due to factors like uneven population growth and new construction, some wards have become much much more populated than other. To ensure that each Torontonian is being fairly and equally represented at City Council, the review has proposed changes to the ward boundaries and presented several options: <http://www.drawthelines.ca/theoptions/>.

To learn more about the review, visit <http://www.drawthelines.ca/>. Fill in the survey, so your opinion is counted.
